dard of orthodoxy. They idolize certain pet texts from the magisterium in an uncritical and unhistorical manner. At the same time they completely ignore other papal and episcopal pronouncements on social justice, disarmament, etc. Pastors are at fault in giving their people the false idea that only the conservative press is "Catholic," at least by default. In my dictionary and theology, catholic means universal, all-encompassing.

I urge pastors to furnish their congregations with a truly catholic range of publications. We all need to observe the axiom, "Beware the man of one book."

APPEAL FOR USED BOOKS

Editor:

► About two years ago you published a letter in your section in which we appealed for books from priests and others who were giving up their libraries. The response we received was most gratifying. Besides the books we kept for our own library, we sent half a ton of books to a newly-founded religious group in Texas, and have sent other shipments to other monasteries, and seminaries.

Recently we were contacted about sending books to a seminary in Africa that has six hundred seminarians! So we appeal again to your readers for hardback books in the areas of theology, scripture, church history, philosophy, spirituality, lives of saints, etc. We are pleased to act as a clearing-house for various institutions seeking out-of-print books. Our only profit besides the service we render, is the addition to our own library when we find a book not in our collection.

CORRECTION

Dear Editor:

► I appreciate the response to my prayer-poem which you published in the September issue of "Pastoral Life."

I would appreciate it if you would identify me as the author of that poem. I should have listed my name on the sheet with the poem.
